

GAMBOLE OF LAMBS TO BE FINEST YET

Whole Constellation of Brightest Stars Will Be Here May 27.

The program for the Lambs' Club gambole on Thursday afternoon, May 27, provides for the biggest and best theatrical entertainment ever given in this city. The performance need not be looked upon as a benefit, as the list of stars who will appear could not be assembled by any other organization except the Lambs. No manager or group of managers could afford to pay the salaries of this combination, if it were possible to get them together. It is conservatively estimated that a bank roll of $300,000 a week would be needed to fill the pay envelopes.

One hundred and twenty-five stars in their various firmaments will appear somewhere in the program. Victor Herbert and his Symphony Orchestra will furnish the music, and a military band will lead the minstrel parade, which will march up Pennsylvania avenue about noon on the day of the performance. This parade will be one of the big features of the frolic.

The tour has been arranged by A. L. Erlanger. David Belasco is the stage manager, and Augustus Thomas the amusement director. In the after-piece these gentlemen, with several playwrights, musicians, and painters of national reputation, will appear as actors. The performance will be unique in many ways.

Here is the program:

HARD CRAB FEAST AT THE COLLEGE INN

Season for the Succulent Crustacean Will Be Ushered in Tonight.

With the formal and official ushering in today of King Hard Crab as a summer table delicacy, announcement is made of the special entertainment tonight at "The College Inn," where Proprietor Samuel J. Steinberger, known to a large circle of friends and patrons as "Smiling Sam," will personally dispense good cheer and show what he knows about hard crabs fixed "College Inn" style.

The entertainment will include instrumental music and vocal selections rendered by local favorites. The special crab menu will include the three styles—hard, soft, and deviled. Mr. Steinberger has personally selected the crabs to be served on this occasion, and to quote his words, "They are the finest you ever saw."

The big assembly room of the "College Inn" will be kept cozy by fans, and to expedite the service extra waiters have been employed.

PRESIDENT IS GIVEN
TICKETS TO CIRCUS

The President will be the envy of every youngster in Washington today, when it becomes known that he was this morning presented with a whole wad of tickets to the circus.

Guy F. Stealy, representing the Ringling Bros., called at the White House and left tickets for the President and his party for the performance this evening or tomorrow evening. The President has not yet decided whether he will have time to go, but young Charlie Taft will go.

BECOMES A COUNTESS

MISS NORA ISELIN

NORA ISELIN WEDS COUNT MANNSFIELD

Ceremony to Be Performed in New York Late
This Afternoon.

NEW YORK, May 10.—With only the immediate relatives and closest friends of the bride present the wedding of Miss Nora Iselin, daughter of C. Oliver Iselin, to Count Colloredo Mansfield, of Austria, will be solemnized late this afternoon, at the residence of the bride's uncle, Columbus O'Donnell Iselin, in this city.

The ceremony will be performed by Monsignor Lavelle, p.o.-rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral. Count Rudolph Colloredo Mansfield, the bridegroom's brother, will be best man. The informal ushers will be Count Windisch-Graetz, of the Austrian Embassy at Washington, and C. Oliver Iselin, Jr., the bride's brother. A reception will follow the ceremony. After their honeymoon, the young couple will sail for Rome, where the bridegroom will take up his duties in the Austro-Hungarian embassy.

CONVENTION SCENE OF GREAT UPROAR

Brith Abraham Members
Fight for Possession of the Floor.

er the storm we will weather it together; if we sink, we go under with friendship and love still."

For only a few moments did the impression of his words last with those who demand a new regime. Mr. Gahlinosky, of New York, was recognized. He is allied with the conservative element. Judge Sanders, a leader of the insurgents, protested. This was the signal for an uproar. The delegates women and men alike, surged to the platform.

Two New York delegates were taken to the floor by force. Men took off their coats, and a football game could not develop the volume of sound that issued from throats of hundreds of delegates who cried for recognition.

Grand Master Max Stern, earlier in the morning, seemed able to cope with the situation. No provisions were made to keep order, but the dominating personality of this man seemed to be enough for previous emergency. Even his bitterest opponents were cowed.

"Be Decent," He Cried.

"Sit down. Sit down. Be decent. You have got to behave. I am running this convention," he shouted. Not until Sanders took the platform and other candidates for recognition were seated by sheer force could the b-dlam be quelled.

Stern opened the convention by declaring that he would not stand for any repetition of the discord that prevailed yesterday. Before he had finished there was an uproar as M. Schellowsky, of New York, ascended the platform. He is a candidate for grand master, and easily seemed the "most popular man in the convention this morning." He appeared to protest against the proposed raising of dues from 30 cents per quarter to 40 cents. He presented his case in three sentences. Before the grand master could put the question cries of yes, yes, indicated that on this one point opinion was nearly unanimous. Stern declared that the dues would remain at 30 cents.

After Schellowsky was seated the grand master found his first opportunity to make himself heard. "Now we must bury the hatchet," he said. "We must act here like men and after this convention must go away as friends and brothers. We must try to talk sensibly about the points at issue; we must forget animosity after the battle has been waged."

For fully fifteen minutes after Schoen had spoken, confusion reigned and combined efforts of the officers failed to put down the disturbance. Cries of "Hut get the money!" greeted Schoen when he again arose and tried to restore order. It seemed to be understood that nominations were in order, and a fear that an attempt to "railroad" administration candidates was on foot made the insurgents determined to name their men first. Man after man was pulled from the platform, and, meanwhile, three or four more would force their way up from the opposite side.

Grand Master Stern was the center of hostilities. He was surrounded by a mob of men and women, and their voices, while on the floor delegates gathered in groups. Several of these impromptu discussions almost developed into fist fights. One heated member of the insurgent element shook his fist in the face of a New York delegate. The insurgent was rescued from a small sized mob of the "Gothamite's" friends, who escorted their colleague to the door.

Nominations Made.
When order was restored the nominations were begun and the surprise of the convention was sprung. Grand Master Stern was nominated for another term by Joseph Barondess, a New York labor leader well known in labor circles, and Stern declined. For the first time the delegates seemed to entertain some remembrance of the work done by their executive and faint applause greeted him as he took his seat.

The popularity of Schellowsky was again shown when he arose to accept the nomination for grand master. Judge Sanders was the candidate placed in the field by the insurgents and in noise, if not numbers, they exceeded anything that had gone before by the demonstration. Only forceful intervention prevented his supporters from carrying the dignified New York candidate from the platform on their shoulders.

Other nominations were: Fing deputy, Samuel Weiss and Joseph Barondess; second deputy, E. Meisler, M. Goldberg, Jacob Sent, L. Selesnow, and Dr. A. B. Sultan, L. Epstein, and secretary, G. H. Rosenberg, E. Koenig, Max Eisen, Samuel Fisher, Max Tierer, Jacob Schoen, Carl Levenskein, Jacob Jacobson, W. Sprung; endowment treasurer, D. Eisler, Max Velschleiser; chairman finance committee, Ed. Cohen, M. Steinberg, Max Granhard; chairman law committee, Max Eckman, D. Reir, Lutz, Leopold Moshkowitz, M. J. Feinberg, and L. Ellis.

Interest tomorrow will center around the election of a grand secretary. Schoen, who made his plea for mercy this morning, will make a strong fight for re-election.

DR. CLARK DEPLORES LABOR CONDITIONS

That the conditions surrounding woman and child workers in Great Britain or on the Continent are no worse than those of similar workers in most parts of America, is the opinion of Dr. Victor S. Clark, expressed in an article on "Woman and Child Wage Earners in Great Britain."

A child in the old country may begin work at the age of twelve, according to Dr. Clark, but must attend school regularly half the time, but at thirteen he must begin work under certain restrictions.

NIHILIST ATTACKS POLICE.

PARIS, May 10.—A Polander named Vitkoff made an attempt in a hotel here to kill M. Von Kotten, chief of the secret police of Moscow. He fired five shots at the police official, but missed his mark. M. Von Kotten asserts that Vitkoff is a dangerous Nihilist who escaped from Siberia.

DROWNS IN CREEK.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 10.—John Robinson, president of the Robinson Investment Company, of this city, fell overboard from a lighter in a small creek near here this morning. A bunch of hyacinths prevented him from rising to the surface and he was drowned. The body was recovered.

THREE MURDERERS TRIED NEXT TERM

POTTSVILLE, Pa., May 10.—Three murderers in Schuylkill county jail, who had temporary respite from justice, while Governor Stuart was considering the McNichol bill which would have given jurors discretionary powers in fixing the punishment for murder, will now have to stand trial.

JULES VERNE MONUMENT.

AMIENS, France, May 10.—A monument to Jules Verne was dedicated here today. The great French novelist died at Amiens March 24, 1905.

A New Baby.

A New Baby! What magic, what mystery, what charm these words have for us. Yet, how infinitely more they mean to the mother. A new life; short, to be sure, but full of possibilities. Some one must be patient, hopeful, watchful, proud and never discouraged. That "some one" is the mother. She has heard her baby's first cry, and whether it be her first or tenth, the feeling is the same. Her feeble arms are out-stretched; those arms that will never desert it as long as the mother shall live. And that hand which supports the head of the new-born babe, the mother's hand, supports the civilization of the world.

Is it any wonder, we ask you, mothers, that with all these responsibilities resting upon your all too weak shoulders, we urge upon you the necessity of selecting the babe's medicine with utmost care; the necessity of protecting your babe from worthless, unknown and narcotic drugs as you would protect it from the fire?
